CORPORATE ACCOUNTING - UNIT I - ISSUE AND REDEMPTION OF PREFERENCE SHARES AND DEBENTURES

Non-cumulative preference shares

These types of shares do not accumulate dividends in the form of arrears. In the case of non-cumulative preference shares, the dividend payout takes place from the profits made by the company in the current year. If there is a year in which the company doesn't make any profit, then the shareholders are not paid any dividends for that year and they cannot claim for dividends in any future profit year.

Inorganic Chemistry

Mrs. S. Malathy,
Head & Associate Professor of Chemistry

The slide features a blue background with a molecular structure graphic on the left and a woman in a blue and red sari on the right.

Multicentre bonded organometallic compounds:

The compounds in which a loosely bonded electron deficient species exist with the coordination of metal like Li, Be, Al... etc

Examples: MgLi or $(\text{CH}_3)_4\text{Li}$, Al_2Me_6 , $[\text{Be}(\text{CH}_3)_2]_2$

Classification of ligands based on hapticity:

Organic ligands are classified according to "number of carbon atoms within a bonding distance of metal atom or the number of carbon atoms in which an organic ligand is attached to central metal atom" is known as "hapticity" of the ligand.

The slide features a blue background with a molecular structure graphic on the right and a woman in a blue and red sari on the left.

The slide features a white background with a woman in a yellow and orange sari on the right.

Introduction of IR Spectroscopy

- Infrared spectroscopy is an important analytical technique for determining the structure of both inorganic and organic compounds. It is also vibrational spectroscopy.
- IR radiation lies in the wavelength range of 0.7 - 400 μm .
- IR Spectroscopy is based upon selective absorption of IR radiations by the molecule which induces vibration of the molecules of the compound.
- IR instruments are two types namely, Dispersive Instrument and Fourier transform IR Instrument.
- The radiation sources used are incandescent lamp, Nernst glower etc., and the detectors used are thermal and photon detectors.

OBJECTIVES

Dried Fish Drying is a method of food preservation it works by removing water from the food, which inhibits the growth of microorganisms and hinders quality decay.

Using sun and wind to prevent spoilage has been practiced since ancient times, and was the earliest form of fish curing.

A central concern of fish processing is to prevent fish from deteriorating, and this remains an underlying concern during other processing operations. Fish processing can be subdivided into fish handling, which is the preliminary processing of raw fish, and the manufacture of fish products.
