ENHANCING SKILLS FOR BETTER EMPLOYABILITY

The Career Guidance and Placement Cell of ADM College for Women organized a Soft Skills Programme entitled on "Enhancing Skills for Better Employability" on 25.10.2021. The Principal i/c, Dr.R. Anbuselvi, inaugurated the programme. The Resource Person, Lion. K.Karthick, GETEK, Training and Placement Services and Solutions, Chennai took over the session. He began his lecture by focusing on the importance of soft skills and they are classified into broad categories such as combination of personal traits, behaviour and social attitudes that allow people to communicate effectively. Soft skills are the need of the hour for recruitment of jobs in one's career. He discussed in detailed why about the seven soft skills that a employee needs in today's workforce. They included leadership skills, teamwork, communication skills, problem solving skills, work ethic, flexibility/adaptability, interpersonal skills. These are referred to as people skills as it includes building and mating relationships, developing rapport and using diplomacy among people.

He went on to begin from the very foundation about what Soft skill is. It is a balance between behavior and knowledge; it's about what one does and how one does it. He also emphasized that it can be improved only by practise and through time. Soft skills are the abilities that will help oneself to carve out a successful career and become a complete professional. He also illustrated the most important parts of soft skills which include self confidence, leadership qualities, inter-personal skills, personality development, self development, goal setting, SWOT Analysis, Communication skills, continuous learning and teamwork. He defined each and every aspect of the above mentioned parts of soft skill in detailed manner. Some of the significant points were to be honest to oneself, know one's gifts and limitations, have a role model, etc. The leadership qualities involved one to have the qualities such as honesty, dedication and sincerity, vision and focus, interpersonal skills, motivation capabilities, patience and decision making capabilities.

After a detailed session he discussed about the basics and importance of soft skill, then moved on to enlighten the students about their resume workbook on how a resume should be organized based on their types namely, chronological and functional resume. He interacted with the students about how they will be judged based on their resume. He told that any employer who received their resume will be decided whether to seek more information about that person or pass. He focussed on the point that one's resume is the first chance to make an impression and that it should be better and be a good resume. The resume should tell about who they are, what they want and what they have to offer. It summarizes the individual career goals, and introduces one's distinctive set of qualifications. He stressed on the fact that resume should be unique as one should be. It should include personal details, professional experience and accomplishments, professional developments and achievements, publications/papers presented.

He emphasized on the 30 useful tips for building resume. Some of the key points were about knowing the purpose of the resume, use of proper grammar, punctuation and matching verb tenses, communicate the purpose of resume, use industry keywords, leave out irrelevant information, not to use pictures, use of appropriate title and heading sizes, include contact information, add one's personal references and to update the resume regularly.

He discussed briefly about how to draft, revise and tailor one's resume. He also provided a list of Do's and Don'ts before actually preparing a resume actually. The Do's included a number of points such as highlighting the characteristics of one's club, its type, size of membership, special features, gross revenues food and beverage volume, including a section with personal data i.e. organizations to which one belongs. The Don'ts included points such as not to include one's race, religion or political affiliation, create false impressions, claim experience that one does not have, merely list names, dates, places etc.

In addition to this, he gave a clear idea about how to write cover letters as cover letters provide an entry and introduction to the resume. He listed out the points to keep in mind while writing the cover letter. It included all the basic key points such as to type on good quality bond paper, address to a specific name and title, use appropriate language and always be positive. He moved on the major part of the session, which is about the interviewing skills. Around 7 tips were provided as interviewing tips. They were listed as follows: plan ahead, role play, eye contact, be positive, adopt, relate and encourage. He demonstrated the type of questions that are frequently asked in an interview.

This was discussed in detail as how the interviewer asks to introduce oneself and about one's strengths and weaknesses. Most importantly, the common interview questions and how they must be answered were also discussed. Some of them were about why should the company hire them, explain how would be an asset to this organization, how would they work under pressure, describe work ethic, etc. He added a more valuable point by providing the list of websites for placements. Some of them were www.placementpoint.com, www.VELAI.NET, www.sarkariexam.co.in, etc. Finally, the mistakes that everyone makes while attending an interview were discussed and about how it should be avoided. It included points such as poorly written resume, lack of technical skills, lack of practical skills, lack of communication skills, failing to prepare, wearing the wrong outfit, asking questions with obvious answers, being unpunctual, having poor body language, lying and bringing up salary and benefits too soon.

MENTAL HEALTH AND WELL-BEING OF STUDENT COMMUNITY

The Career Guidance and Placement Cell of ADM College for Women, Nagapattinam organized a programme on "Mental health and Well being of student community" on 02.10.2021. P. John Leeson Social Worker in the Department of Pulmonary Medicine Christian Medical College(CMC), Vellore was the honorable resource person. Principal i/c, Dr. R. Anbuselvi welcomed the gathering and inaugurated the Programme. The Resource Person took over the session. He emphasized on the importance of mental health to students as it is the need of the hour for younger generations. He explained that research shows high levels of mental health that are associated with increased learning, creativity and productivity, more pro-social behaviour and positive social relationships with improved physical health and life expectancy.

He focused on how and why a student is affected by mental stress. He said that entrance to the college marks is a period of transition for young people. Through this transition, students face new challenges, such as making independent decisions about their lives and studies, adjusting to the academic demands of a new environment, and interacting with new people. In addition, many students, often for the first time, leave their homes and distance themselves from their family. These challenges can affect the mental health and well-being of the students.

The probabilities of experiencing common psychological problems, such as depression, anxiety, and stress, increase throughout in adolescence and reach a peak in early adulthood around age 25, which makes student community particularly in vulnerable population. He explained that some researchers refer to these trends as an emerging "mental health crisis" in higher education.

Mental health, defined by the World Health Organization, is "a state of well-being in which the individual realizes his or her own abilities, can cope with the normal stresses of life, can work productively and fruitfully, and is able to make a contribution to his or her community".

He enlightened the students with facts from research on mental health and well-being in college students. He quoted that the statistical data of mental health and Well being has experienced a steady growth over the last decades, especially since 2010. He also gave an idea about how these data are obtained. The data emerges from the research conducted in the behavioural and biomedical sciences about how mental health (i.e., mental illness) is approached. He mainly addressed seven topics to maintain proper mental health. The notable points were positive mental health, mental disorders, substance abuse, counseling, stigma, stress and mental health measurement. The factors affecting mental health were discussed and measures for the development of mental health of students were highlighted

The importance of mental health and well-being in students are growing exponentially in the last decades were discussed. He explained that this is due to three interrelated challenges. At First, recent studies suggest an increase in mental problems among students around the world from the last decade.

Types of mental illness

- mood disorders (such as depression or bipolar disorder)
- anxiety disorders.
- personality disorders.
- psychotic disorders (such as schizophrenia)
- eating disorders.
- trauma-related disorders (such as post-traumatic stress disorder)
- substance abuse disorders.

Secondly, psychological distress with in the students is due to short-term outcomes, such as poor college attendance, performance, engagement, and completion and others in the long term, such as dysfunctional relationship, recurrent mental health problems, college dropout, lower rates of employment and reduced personal income.

Being aware of the facts about suicide makes you a vital partner in suicide prevention in our community

Thirdly, there is a lack of academic, professional, and social activities, along with health services and other support services. He also stressed on the main drawback that the majority of students experiencing mental health problems well are not receiving treatment.

The session ended gracefully with vote of thanks. The Resource Person and the students also had an interactive session, students started sharing their opinions to overcome mental illness. Around 40 students were benefitted from the programme.
